

Contributors

Chae Kyung-suk

Professor at Hoseo University and Director of the Research Center for Unification, his Ph.D. is in Public Administration from Korea University. Formerly Dean of Academic Affairs at the College of Social Science, Hoseo University, and Exchange Professor at UCLA and Tsukuba University. Author of Logic and Practice of Public Policy Implementation (2000), Introduction to North Korean Studies (1997) and Introduction to Public Policy (2001). His major articles include "Policy Implementation and Policy Metaphor" (2002).

Chung Jin-young

Professor of International Relations, Kyunghee University, he earned his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. He is a former research fellow at the Sejong Institute. He edited Global Governance: The Role of International Institutions. His major articles include "Debating East Asia's Currency and Financial Crisis and Its Developmental Future" (2000) and "The Current State of Debates concerning International Relations Theory" (2000).

Choi Zihn

Currently Research Fellow at the Institute for Economic and Social Development of Korea, he holds an LL.B. from Kyunghee University. He studied at the School of Administration, Seoul National University, and served many years at Korea's foreign mission. He was First Secretary of the Korean Embassy in Singapore, a counselor in Hungary, and a minister in China. His areas of specialty are North Korean affairs and the Communist movement in Korea and he co-authored How was the Republic of Korea Born?

Jung Gi-woong

Instructor at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies, he holds a B.A., an M.A. and a Ph.D. in Political Science from Hankuk University of Foreign Studies. Formerly, an executive research fellow at the Korean Political Economic Institute, his major articles include "A New Approach to Robert D. Putnam's Two-Level Game Theory" (2002).

Hong Ihk-pyo

Senior Researcher at the Korea Institute for International Economic Policy. He holds a B.A. and an M.A. in Political Science from Hanyang University. Specializing in the North Korean economy, he wrote "Early Policy of Reform and Opening in China and Vietnam and the Direction of Reform in North Korea" (2000), and "Expansion of Special Economic Zones in North Korea: Possibilities and Directions" (2001), among others.

Choi Dae-seok

Professor of North Korean Studies at Dongguk University, he was previously a research fellow at the Korea Institute of National Unification and a visiting research fellow at the Institute of Far East Studies, Kyungnam University. He holds an M.A. in International Relations from Syracuse University and a Ph.D. in Political Science from Claremont Graduate School. His major interests are changes in North Korean society and the political economy of Northeast Asia. He co-authored The Modern Political System of North Korea (2000), and The North-South Reconciliation and National Unification (2001).